International Society
for Criminology (I.S.C.)

Société Internationale
de Criminologie (S.I.C.)

Established in 1938, the International Society for Criminology (ISC) is the oldest and only worldwide scientific organization in the field of criminology. It was set up with the objective to promote activities and research for a better understanding of crime at an international scale, and also helps to promote the prevention of crime as well as improve the procedures used by the various criminal justice systems. The Society enjoys an advisory status at the United Nations and the Council of Europe and participates in the work of UNESCO. Its members occupy major positions in their respective countries (scholars, judges, criminal justice administrators, etc.).

Celebrating its 75th anniversary in 2013, the ISC Board has decided to organize a series of World Crime Forums to discuss various key challenges for criminal justice and criminology all over the globe and propose new solutions. World crime forums have already been planned in Montreal, Washington, Sao Paulo, San Sebastian, Leuven, Johannesburg, Seoul and Brisbane. The Bologna World Crime Forum on urban security and prevention of victimization constitutes part of this global series of events.

PROGRAMME

The conference would like to examine the situation of victimology and the evolution of laws in this discipline in Italy and in Europe focusing attention on research that points out that the victim and the criminal are in constant parallel, even if in the interpretative dynamic of the offense the victims have always been left in darkness. These are the foundations on which the citizens' Europe must be built. From this information on the existing initiatives and on the various parliamentary bills, it can now be seen that in Italy, and on a wider scale, in Europe, there is an open debate on the issue of victims and on the need to make progress on the legislation to protect those who have suffered injury and who seek compensation and assistance. The possibility of a dialogical perspective between criminal and victim, even outside the criminal trial, could represent a guarantee for a democratically accountable citizenship. It is, thus, necessary to pay increased attention to re-establishing social links and a network for victim support. The meeting's success will be evaluated on the basis of the engagement of participants in creating operative links among victim's support centres.
